

JPMAM tops the charts in the 2008 Thomson Reuters Extel Survey

JPMorgan Asset Management was named the Leading Pan-European Fund Management Firm in the 2008 Thomson Reuters Extel Survey.

The survey asked brokerage firms, research houses and companies to rate fund management firms on their overall quality of service and industry knowledge. JPMAM beat 717 peers to take the top spot.

Jorg Mitterer accepts the award for Leading Fund Management Firm from Greg Dyke.

The survey also delivered a resounding endorsement of the exceptional insight of our European equity analysts. JPMAM analysts took the top three places overall:

- Leading Pan-European Fund Management Individual:
Peter Lawrence
(Capital Goods)

- Second place:
Asif Jeevanjee
(Transport, Services and Leisure)

- Third place:
Lionel Therond
(Media)

And that's not all. The breadth and depth of our research coverage was highlighted by the sector-topping performance of our individual analysts:

- Top-ranked analyst in 18 of the 32 sectors covered by the survey
- Top-three analyst in 25 of the 32 sectors
- All of our European equity analysts were ranked in the top three in at least one sector

JPMorgan Asset Management's highly-experienced career analysts generate the ideas that power our European Research Driven Process. They concentrate on individual sectors, providing consistent, long-term stock coverage.

Patrick Vermeulen, who heads the European Research Driven Team, said:

“The survey acknowledges the quality of JPMAM's research capabilities and highlights our commitment to top-class analysis to support our range of funds.”

insight + process = results

What is the Thomson Reuters Extel Survey?

The Thomson Reuters Extel Survey is an annual survey in which the investment community assesses the leading Pan-European financial companies and professionals. Quoted companies and sell-side analysts vote for the best buy-side analyst in each of 32 sectors, and for the best buy-side company overall.

2008's survey represents the votes of 150 brokerage firms/research houses and 450 of Europe's largest quoted companies, making it the most extensive assessment of the European investment community ever undertaken.
